all previous orders that I made online in order to not be traumatised by your Galway branch manager following my two complaints against her arrived next day

Only after you breached the equal status act and claimed that I misbehaved and can no longer enter does the next order take over four business days

And you have ignored all of that by claiming that I - an innocent TBI and CPTSD victim who did nothing wrong, who has spent hundred in person at your Galway Café since it opened, and tipped more than most customers, and have been illegally limited to to online orders only - deserves to wait over 10 business days before you refund my order despite me showing you evidence that An Post themselves told me to contact you.

Hi Cian,

Sorry to hear you still haven't received your order #247455.

Deliveries via AnPost on average take between 1-10 business working days to be delivered. Today would be the 4th business working day so we would expect delivery soon.

We'll keep an eye on the tracking for you and in the event your order isn't delivered after this time frame we'll look into the matter further.

Kind Regards,
Customer Service.

Following your email where you have breached the Equal Status Act, falsely claimed I have misbehaved and placed illegal conditions of sale for a disabled individual while paradoxically claiming it also illegal for me to communicate further with regards to the reputation of mine you have damaged or the supplements you advertise to help disabled people:

The supplements I rely on to treat myoclonic seizure and CPTSD exacerbated due to death threats stemming from false accusations that I a registered teacher attacked two of your female staff has not been delivered in 6 days

Every other innocent person in Galway can walk into your store and purchase such. That is why such public facing companies are bound by the Equal Status Act and that is why every single customer has the right to WRC mediation which you have gaslit me about claiming that was an unreasonable request - that protections against prejudice following severe mental abuse by Ciara Heneghan and less severe but still severely damaging mental abuse by Carla of your Galway branch based on disability and gender is an unreasonable request.

You have placed illegal rules around me to give full weight to defamation without evidence, if I was guilty why would I have complained and drawn attention to myself? Why would I have given you my full name and identity?

I followed the law and the letter you sent me attached and your treatment of me since Carla's false accusation in 2023 and Ciara's retaliatory hatred in 2025 and 2026 has crippled my ability to make eye contact, speak, or teach.

After your traumatic email where you claim that because I have CPTSD, a Traumatic Brain Injury and damage to my jaw and tmj that makes my face look ugly/angry when I am not... your illegal extra rules for me have cause multiple days of distress not worthy of the same CBD herb that everyone else in Galway is

An Post advise getting in touch to inform you of such and now you will claim I am harrassing you by doing so?

Can I have a refund please?

The screenshot displays the An Post website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with links for Personal, Business, Money, Sustainability, Help & Support, Find a Post Office, Shop, and My account. Below this is a green header with the An Post logo and a secondary navigation bar with links for Post & Parcels, Money, Mobile, Insurance, Government Services, and Shop.

The main content area features a tracking page for item CB1618817261E. The current status is "We have your item and will process it for delivery". Below this, there is a section for logging in or signing up to keep an eye on tracking and manage the delivery, with buttons for "Sign up" and "Log in".

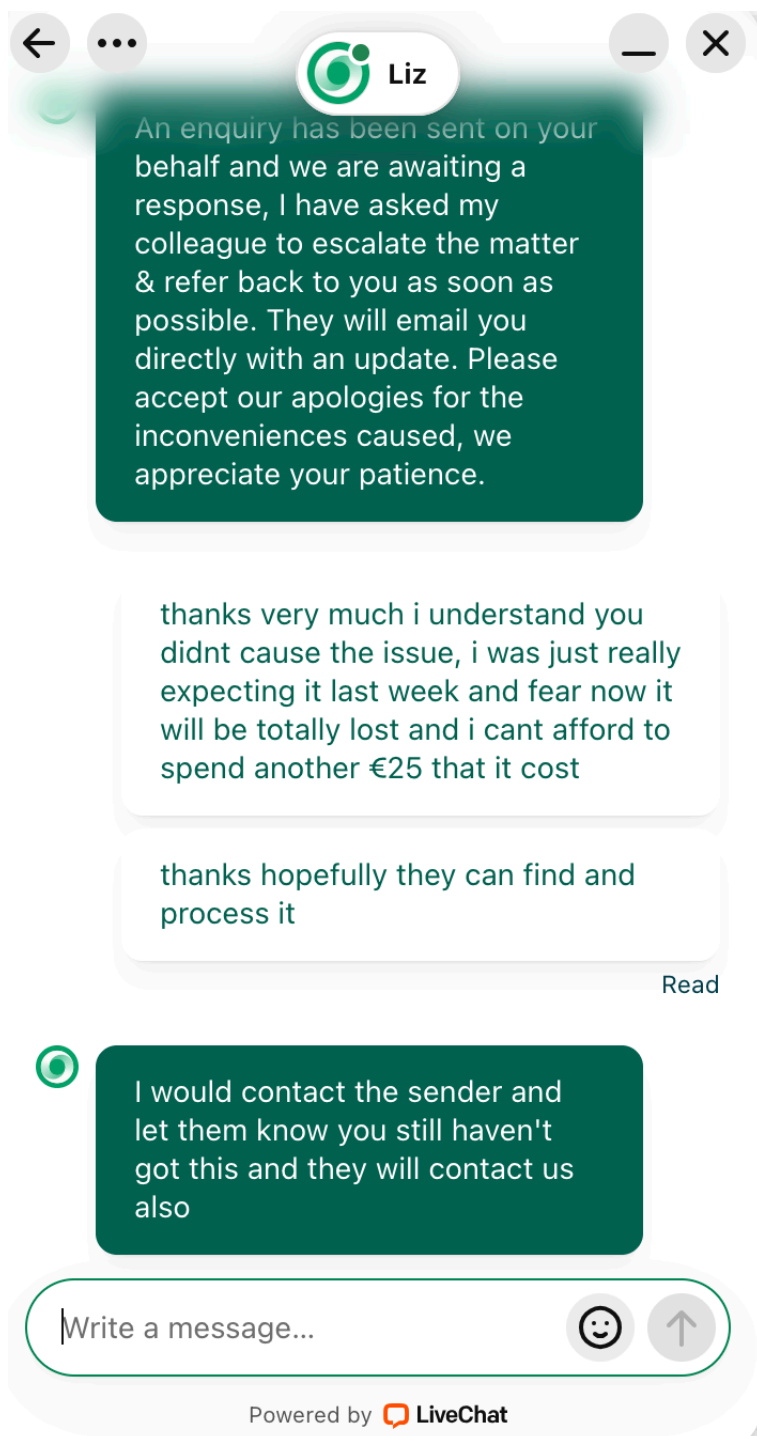

The "Item history" section shows a timeline of events for the item:

- 13 May 2026 20:39: We have your item and will process it for delivery
- 13 May 2026 18:21: We have received information about your incoming item from the sender
- 13 May 2026 15:18: Your item has been handed to An Post

The "Get delivery confirmation by email" section allows users to request an email notification to be sent when their item has been delivered by An Post in the Republic of Ireland. It includes a text input field for the email address and a "Request confirmation of delivery" button.

On the right side, there is a promotional banner for "An Post at your fingertips" with a "Download the app" button. Below this is a "Pay a customs charge" section.

Overlaid on the right side of the screenshot is a chat window from a "Liz Agent". The chat history shows a message from the user: "I would like to let them know I got this and they will contact us also". The agent's response is: "You're welcome Cian, have a nice day. Could you please take the time to fill out the below survey on your customer experience. By participating in the survey you can enter a free prize draw for the opportunity of winning one €150 virtual Mastercard. https://redclive.online-host.solutions/ASP/P018297/login.asp?ch=10&pr=4&tr=17". The chat window also includes a "Write a message..." input field and a "Powered by LiveChat" logo.

Subject: Response to further trauma and defamation Re: Attention of Cian Mac Liatháin

My two original complaints will be requested as part of the public WRC Adjudication submission which contain my testimony, and I now have no choice but to proceed with a civil case for psychological damages and defamation brought about by both Carla, Ciara and now J.P. and Íde for allowing this.

You are in further breach of the Equal Status Act.
