4th year SP

Good morning Cian,
I heard that you did a 'brilliant' class yesterday for your SP tutor visit. 'Brilliant' isn't said too often on 4th year placement visits, so excellent work!!!
Really well done - give yourself a clap on the back!
You are doing great on School Placement - we are proud of you and your progression. Make sure you take a rest of sorts next week during midterm, and then refocus for the remaining weeks - the semester is flying by.
Well done again Cian - keep up the great work!! Cornelia

Múinteoireacht sa Bhéarla != Gaelscolaíocht

Dear Sir/Madam,

Cian MacLiatháin is a final year student on the Bachelor of Mathematics and Education programme in NUI Galway. In the time that I have known Cian, he has proved to be a very conscientious and hardworking student. I have watched Cian grow into a passionate, knowledgeable and caring teacher who has demonstrated a high level of academic achievement. Cian's teaching abilities combined with his strong teamwork skills, interpersonal and communication skills and work ethic have demonstrated his capacity to be an excellent student who progressed to become an excellent teacher.

Cian's final year research project focused on the use of technology in the mathematics classroom to support constructivist teaching and learning. This research project explicitly shows Cian's ability to excel in his academic capabilities. Cian demonstrated a high level of statistical analysis, some of which in my experience, I have only seen in PhD research.

I have every confidence in Cian's academic, professional and personal qualities and abilities and have no doubt he would be an asset to any programme.

Kind Regards,

Hi Cian,

I am absolutely delighted for you, but not surprised, as I knew you could do it! I was also very impressed by the quality of your assignments, and think you have done really, really well.

It sounds like you will enjoy having nothing hanging over you for the summer – so, enjoy it as much as you can in the current context!

And we look forward to having you back for your last year next year ☺

Take care,

Elaine

Dr Keane,

I just wanted to send you this quick reply even if it's 2 weeks after your email.

Just in the last hour I've finally submitted the last assignment needed for my Research Literacies modules and now have everything submitted for the year. This is the first time in 5 years that I don't have some seemingly 'impossible' academic commitment hanging over my head. I will be waiting for the other shoe to drop for a while I think!

As I started reflecting on these past few months, this email is the first thing that came to mind as I just wanted to email you a thank you for it, it's definitely had a positive

Hi Cian,
It's not too late and well done to you on getting all parts of the module assessment in! You are brilliant altogether – you should be hugely proud of yourself.
Mind yourself in the coming weeks and months and please stay in touch – let me or any of us on the staff know if you need anything,

I'm emailing you just to let you know that I have submitted an attempt at Assignment 1 on Blackboard.

I'm very sorry for the delay, I've been trying my best and am just glad that something is submitted. I completely understand if it is too late to be accepted at this stage.

Thanks for your time and support throughout the year,

I should be fine in completing the other assignment myself, I understand it and have an Inclusive Lesson carried out I just need to write it up.

I'm just trying to complete some other assignments, and am finding it hard not to get overwhelmed and frozen in general. It can feel like there are years of bad memories and failure to sift through just to get to the present. But when I can actually get into the process of writing, it's enjoyable.

I'm very relieved that I managed to get something finished for Assignment 2, I can try and view that as recent evidence of progress and recovery. Hopefully it wasn't a fluke!

Thanks for your time,

Dr. Keane,

I'm very sorry for the delay in messaging you again. I'm fully aware that it is getting close to the end of the year and I really hope to also get Assignment 1 to you if it's not too late yet.

I know I probably come across as very unprepared/unmotivated and that hasn't been my intention at all. I've tried my best in the past while to complete Assignment 2, and now that I've finished it I wanted to ask you something about it before I submit it on Blackboard.

Outside of my Bibliography it is still far too long at 4300 words. I've tried my best to cut it down but at this stage after cutting things out of it I'm starting to second-guess whether I've done any of it right at all. Is it possible to submit one so long over the 2500-3000? I would assume there'd obviously be some deduction in marks and that wouldn't be a problem at all, I'm more worried it won't be accepted as maybe it's too long to fit the brief.

Thanks for your support throughout the year,
Cian

Hi Cian,

Many thanks for this update and I hope you are keeping well in these unsettling times. That's great that the inclusive lesson went so well, well done to you.

It sounds like you are making lots of progress, so be proud of yourself for that, and keep going.

I am not at all surprised that you have received very good feedback for the work you have submitted – it is clear that you are a hard worker, a clear thinker and that you are committed – so in that context, I am not at all surprised. Your only issue is confidence in yourself! Hopefully the positive feedback will assist you in continuing your efforts. Keep going with the inclusive teaching assignment, and the upcoming one, and just get in touch at any time if you have any questions or if I can help you with anything. We can organise an online meeting also if you like.

Keep in touch!

Best wishes,
Elaine

Dr Keane,

I just wanted to email you a kind of update since the last time we spoke, to avoid burying my head in the sand.

I'm sorry that I still haven't sent you the Inclusive Teaching Lesson Plan, however I did design a lesson and put it into practice before schools closed. Luckily I had my teaching inspection the Wednesday before schools/colleges closed and I used the Inclusive Teaching strategies for the inspection, and my feedback for it was really good.

In the meantime I've also submitted some lesson plans, an Opening Statement (1500 words) for my Practical Teaching Module and a Research Project Proposal (1500 words) for my Research Literacies Module and have surprisingly gotten good feedback for those.

I know that these assignments / inspection aren't directly related to your module but my struggle with submitting the Inclusive Lesson Plan and this upcoming assignment very much stems from a wider crippling academic anxiety and inner critic that developed a few years ago. The above things that I've finally completely in the last few weeks are more than I was able to do in the previous few years, and seeing that concrete progress has helped my mental health and self-efficacy a lot.

I very much hope that I will be able to submit the upcoming assignment in time and get the Inclusive Lesson Plan to you shortly after.

Sorry for the intermittent communication,
Cian

To Whom it May Concern

Re: Cian Mac Liatháin, 11476078

This letter is to confirm that Cian has attended Student Counselling & Wellbeing on a recurring basis from 2017 - 2023 as he was dealing with personal issues which negatively impact on academic work.

Cian has spoken consistently about a complicated and challenging relationship with his parents and family during this time period, including estrangement.

I would be grateful if you could take this into consideration.

Kind Regards,

James McCormack

To Whom it May Concern

Re: Cian Mac Liatháin, 11476078

Cian has attended counselling on an on-going basis during his time in college in University of Galway from 2016 – 23. Anxiety has been a constant challenge for Cian and would particularly come to the fore during stressful situations such as when assignments were due, before exams, job interviews, and some social situations. Cian's pattern during these times was to procrastinate and avoid the stressful situation. Cian always used his time in counselling well and engaged insightfully with his own wellbeing. He has also engaged with the Disability Service in the university.

I would be grateful if you could take this into consideration.

To whom it may concern.

Cian MacLiathain has been registered with the Disability Support Service from 2017 to 2020 when he was studying the Bachelor of Arts (Mathematics and Education) and from 2021 to 2023 when he was registered to do the Higher Diploma (Software Design and Development).

Cian has an ongoing anxiety disorder that required him to avail of reasonable accommodations to support his studies. Cian received exam accommodations, in class supports (leniency with deadlines for his assignments), support and advocacy from his disability advisor and referral to other supports as necessary (counselling and the student health unit).

I understand that Cian is now enrolled in a course in Dundalk Institute of Technology. I would support Cian's request to register with the Disability Support Service as I think he would require and benefit from having reasonable accommodations to help him with his studies and I would support his request to register for supports, as his anxiety disorder can be exacerbated during times of stress.
